

KEY NOTE OF JONES FIGHT

"Watch and Wait" Is Now Administration Motto on Appointment.

S. O. S. CABLE TO EUROPE

President Calls Senators Owen and Fletcher Back to Help in Desperate Efforts.

The administration is fighting for delay and will resist any effort to vote before next week on the question of the confirmation of Thomas D. Jones, of Chicago, nominated to be a member of the Federal Reserve Board. This policy became apparent yesterday, both at the White House and the Capitol.

Senator Hitchcock, who submitted his report against confirmation to the Senate, but there is an understanding that nothing shall be done until the minority report is submitted. Minority members of the committee yesterday instead of preparing their report, announced that none would be submitted before next week.

A copy of the confidential report of the committee has been sent to Mr. Jones, and he has been asked to demand an hearing at the hands of the committee or to send in a statement in reply to the conclusions of the majority of the committee. Pending this action of Mr. Jones the minority or administration members of the committee will do nothing.

Sends for Senators.

During the day Postmaster Burleson, one of the political lieutenants of the President, spent a couple of hours in the private room of Senator Culberson, from which he sent for Senators known to be opposed to Jones. He endeavored to whip them into line. No success was accomplished in that direction. Several more Senators were summoned to the White House yesterday, and the end of the avenue the pressure was being applied to force Senators to support Jones. Last night, however, there was no indication that a single Senator has weakened, and the majority against Jones is placed at ten.

It is reported at the Capitol that the President has called for Senators Owen and Fletcher to return from Europe.
The former is chairman of the Banking Committee, and his absence at this critical juncture has angered the President. Fletcher, it is said, is to be appointed as an additional Democratic member of the Banking Committee to insure its administration leaning.

Weeks States Reason.

Senator Weeks, Republican member of the Banking Committee, last night issued a statement in which, although disagreeing with some of the conclusions of the majority report, he gives a brief statement of his reasons for opposing confirmation.

There were intimations yesterday that Paul M. Warburg, of New York, might yet come before the committee in response to its invitation. Representatives Oglesby, of New York, had a conference with Senator Hitchcock in Mr. Warburg's behalf. Through the Representative Mr.
Warburg assured the committee that his refusal to come before it was based upon a misunderstanding. He understood that he would be heckled and subjected to needless embarrassment.

Mr. Oglesby was told that the committee had no such purpose, and only desired to inquire concerning Mr. Warburg's business connections and obtain his views on financial matters.

Charles S. Hamilton, W. P. G. Harding and Adolph C. Miller, the three members appointed and confirmed for the Federal Reserve Board, will be sworn in Monday.

HARMONY LODGE GIVES "EM THE "ONCE UNDER"

Class of New Candidates Is Initiated at New Masonic Temple.

A class of candidates were initiated into the mysteries of the master's degree at a session of Harmony Lodge, No. 17, F. A. M., at the New Masonic Temple last night. About 150 members attended the initiation ceremonies and a banquet which followed.

As the banquet guests entered the hall, they saw the members of the Harmony baseball team, which was so decisively "licked" by the All-Masonic team recently, "laid out" for burial with candles at their heads and a "high priest" in charge.

The degree work was in charge of Worshipful Master R. E. Pearson, assisted by a degree team from Washington Centennial Lodge. Roe Fulkerson was toastmaster, assisted by F. E. Tagger, and scintillations of song and wit were added to the program by Mr. Fulkerson, Jacobus Jones, "Ham" Smith, Robert Young and some others.

A cup was awarded to Manager Betts of the victorious All-Masonic team.

IT'S HOT DOSE, THIS FEDERAL COMMISSION

"Spanish Fly and Cayenne Pepper" Is What Senator Brandegee Calls It.

"SNOOPING, SPYING, SPOTTING"

Senator Brandegee, of Connecticut, raked the trust bills fore and aft in the Senate yesterday afternoon. He said that Senator Newlands was determined to pass a bill carrying the title "Federal trade commission bill," and that the Senator cared very little what was in the bill if he could but pass a bill with that title. Senator Gallinger added to the discomfort of Senator Newlands by reading an extract from a letter written by Senator Hollie, who claimed that Representative Stephens, of New Hampshire, was the author of the Federal trade commission bill. Senator Newlands blushed furiously, and suggested that Representative Stephens was the author of "section 6" of the bill, which contains the words, "unfair competition," which have excited so much controversy in the Senate.

Senator Sterling and Senator Mc-Cumber had attacked the bill. But it remained for Senator Brandegee to dissect it mercilessly.

"The truth of it is," said Senator Brandegee, "Senator Newlands is living in a fog of optimism and charity on this matter. He has not landed anything but a wet fish. The country knows absolutely nothing about what he proposes to give them. They think it is a sort of anodyne of soporific and oleaginous substances which will be poulticed to the end of its shattering nerve, when really it is nothing but a scourge and a dose of Spanish fly and cayenne pepper to irritate and drive them to dis-truction."

"If these poor, misguided uplifters and business men who delight to come down here and attend a function at the White House, and then go away and give an interview about how prosperous their business is in consideration of the free lunch to which they have been treated, understand in the faintest degree what sort of a dose is going to be administered to them they would subside."

"If they understood that any time they uttered some remark as to politics or business which savored of less than this Federal trade commission bill the next day they would be to visit by a little snoop or spotter from Washington, who would pull out his union card and demand the combination of their safe and all their documents and books and papers and contracts and affidavits with other corporations and individuals, they would subside both as to their political and humanitarian sentiments very quickly. If they understood what this dose of health to the poor business man would be, they would see that their only salvation is to nip this sort of legislation in the bud, to brand it as undemocratic and un-American and tyrannical, and they would, instead of trying to get the bill amended here and there, scotch this snake right at its birth."

"The American people know that business will not tolerate such things in the country as a commission to be continually snooping around charged with nothing but the power to make an infinite and unregulated series of 'dents.' If this commission is fit to decide what is an unfair method of competition, it is certainly fit to decide what is a fair method of competition and it is got to decide what is fair before it can decide what is unfair."

CHARGES PLOT AGAINST ARGENTINE MEAT MEN

Their Representative Asserts American Packers and New York Railroads Are in Conspiracy.

WRITES LETTER TO THE I. C. C.

Special to The Washington Herald.
New York, July 16.—Charges that American meat packers and the railroads out of New York are in conspiracy to ruin the independent meat packers of South America, are made in a letter sent by H. Benjamin, representative of two of the largest South American meat packers, to the Interstate Commerce Commission and the Department of Agriculture.

Mr. Benjamin asked the Interstate Commerce Commission to investigate the railroad system to provide facilities for handling Argentine meat shipped to New York, and requests the Department of Agriculture to prevent the American packers from getting control of the South American meat supply.

There is a shortage of beef, Mr. Benjamin admits, but he asserts that he can supply sufficient of the South American product for the American market to reduce the retail price to 3 to 5 cents a pound below the present rate. The total shipment of Western meat to the New York market is now 7,000,000 pounds a week.
South America is sending an average of 4,000,000 pounds to this market and easily could increase its shipments to 7,000,000 pounds a week.

The American packers ship enormous quantities of American meat to London and send almost the whole of the product of their South American plants there.
The South American independent packers are committed on large contracts to London, and the result of the enormous shipments to that market is surplus there of at least 70,000 quarters of beef. This breaks the price of meat there and the American packers buy this surplus at low prices and ship it back to the United States, where it is sold as chilled meat, says Mr. Benjamin.

PICTURES OF FIGHT AT BOTTOM OF SEA SHOWN

Press Club Members Witness Remarkable Motion Picture Exhibition of Underwater "Thriller."

One of the most remarkable series of motion pictures ever shown was exhibited before an audience at the Press Club last night. The pictures were animated scenes of sea life, taken at a depth of from twenty to thirty feet beneath the surface and climaxed by the "thriller" of an underwater fight between a man and a shark.

The pictures were shown by courtesy of the Submarine Film Corporation, which controls the inventory of the most pictures possible. Every one of the pictures shown is an absolute revelation.

The Williams brothers—George and Frank—arrived upon a patent of their franchise, Capt. Charles Williamson, of Norfolk, Va., which consists of a hollow tube lowered into the water with the operator at the top and the camera at the bottom. The pictures were taken from the tube, which was lowered to the bottom of the sea, and the operator, who was seen at the top of the tube, was able to control the camera and the operator. The pictures were shown at the National Motion Picture Theatre yesterday morning.

evitable feature in a fancy coat.

WILSON VISITS BRYAN'S OFFICE

Changes Order of Things by Dropping in at State Department.

LONE CLERK SURPRISED

Informal Inspection Reminds Attaches of Similar Calls by Presidents McKinley and Taft.

Almost any day in the week, and particularly when there is excitement in connection with the foreign affairs of the United States in the air, Secretary of State William Jennings Bryan calls upon President Woodrow Wilson; and this order of things has been reversed but once, so far.

It is, of course, the custom in Washington for people who want to see the President of the United States to go to him. But last Flag Day President Wilson called on Secretary Bryan at the latter's office in the big granite State, War and Navy Building. There was practically no one in the building at the time, as the government employees had been given a holiday and the story of the President's call did not leak out for quite some days afterward.

The President was returning from the speaker's stand built on the south portico of the State, War and Navy Building, and was passing down the long east corridor of that edifice, accompanied by Secretary Bryan and Col. W. W. Harts.

Dr. Cary T. Grayson, military and medical aide to the President, followed when the President conceived the idea that he would like to drop into the president's office. Accordingly, the party marched down the corridor to the suite

L. C. C. DENIES INCREASE OF EASTERN RATES

Decision Believed to Be Foreshadowing that on 5 Per Cent Rise.

A decision handed down by the Interstate Commerce Commission yesterday was read with great interest by railroad men and others who are anxiously awaiting the commission's decision in the advance rate case. The findings rendered by the commission yesterday involved advances made by the Maine Central Railroad on class and commodity rates. These increases were based upon substantially the same group of reasons that are advanced by other Eastern railroads in the big advance rate case, and in this instance the Interstate Commerce Commission flatly declined to grant the increases.

The proposed advances by the Maine Central Railroad involved rates from points on the Maine Central to all points in Central Association territory, but notably Chicago. The railroad contended that the advances in commodity rates were largely on paper, but in the class rates they sought to apply the differential to the Boston rate, ranging from 2 to 4 cents for 100 pounds. Heretofore the Boston rate had prevailed for the territory affected.

The carriers are ordered to continue the present rates for at least two years. The feature of the findings rendered by the commission yesterday was the contention of the railroad that the increases were necessary because of its being given the portage to the State Department on condition that they always be hung together. They are among the finest of the many oil paintings at the State Department. President Wilson was deeply interested in the many other portraits in this and the other rooms visited.

The President enjoyed his experience, especially as it was his first visit to the building. In fact, until he came to the Capital as President of the United States, President Wilson had very little knowledge concerning Washington.

President Wilson broke no precedent by calling at Secretary Bryan's office. President McKinley visited his Secretary of State, John Sherman, several times.

Some of the veteran attaches of the State Department also recall that President McKinley visited his Secretary of State, John Sherman, several times.

President Wilson has done about as little calling on a President who ever occupied the White House, however.

OH, ZEE FRESH CHAUFFEUR!

To Ask $9.70 for Taxi Ride from Count with Chateaux? FI Done!

Special to The Washington Herald.
New York, July 16.—A man who looked like a stage Frenchman and said he was Count Penny de Maney, of 30 West Seventy-ninth street, passed the early morning in a cell of the West Sixty-eighth street police station, after he had spent the earlier part of the night in a taxicab ride for which he was unable to pay.

The count ordered a taxi at 6 o'clock last evening and Archibald Rogers, driver for the Broadway Operating Company, 38 West Ninety-sixth street, responded.

At midnight the taxi was in latitude Sixty-eighth street, longitude Broadway, and the count expressed a desire to quit.

"You owe me $9.70," said Rogers, checking the meter of the car.
"Oh," replied the count, "the drinks I bought you liquidated that."

Then Rogers turned in at the police station.
"Count Penny de Maney," answered the man to an inquiring desk lieutenant, "Business? I am a member of the French nobility. Occupation? Oh, I have chateaux in France. Pay the chauffeur? But I have no money with me."

A charge of disorderly conduct was lodged against the count and he was led into a cell.

When he was arraigned before Magistrate Murphy in the West Side Police Court this morning a messenger arrived with the money and the chauffeur withdrew the complaint. In the night the count had telephoned to friends of his predicament.

Carl Garrison, Mrs. Carr's brother, has charge of her case against her husband.
